Description: New John Wood Commercial Gas Water Heater with Integrated Control

We are excited to introduce our next generation of John Wood commercial gas water heaters with an integrated control. These new heaters are available with the same gallon capacity and Btu input as the existing models but now features an integrated control.

Integrated Control

The new integrated control is at eye level with self diagnostic capabilities, showing various error codes and allowing you too easily and accurately trouble shoot problems. It also allows you to adjust temperature and displays the temperature at each sensor. The temperature settings can be adjusted from 90 Deg F to 180 Deg F.

Easy to Install and Service

These units are easy to install and service, with a conveniently located hand hole clean out and an easy, slide out burner tray. An available Power Vent Kit comes with new quick connect system for ease of side wall venting installations

Flexibility

Just like the previous commercial gas product generation these heaters are able to adapt to almost any situation. They are available in ASME from 199,000 BTU to 399,000 BTU. Power vent kits are available for side wall venting. Conversion kits are available for high altitude regions as well as for liquid propane/natural gas conversion for all models. These are CSA approved kits that allow field conversions with no need for additional inspection or costs.

The new John Wood™ commercial gas heaters will become available in early January 2008 when existing inventory is depleted. Please refer to the below chart for new model numbers.
